

Domestic Fundamentals:

There is no major shift in fundamentals to comment on as the fundamentals remain unchanged compared to previous couple of days. Palm and sunflower demand is picking up from Chennai and adjoining regions while it is relatively stable from Hyderabad. Meanwhile G/N oil demand from Gujarat and Maharashtra stay firm thereby keeping the prices at higher levels. At the same time mustard oil demand from North India stay steady to firm thereby lending support to the entire edible oil prices. Moving forward, edible oil demand at domestic front is likely to pick up prior to monsoon which might underpin the market sentiments at subdued price levels.

International Market Fundamentals:

At US front, a private analyst issued to planted acreage estimates which were on a lower side for corn, bean and spring wheat acres owing to wet conditions across the northern plains and eastern Midwest and accounting for flood losses in the Delta. At other destinations, a quick resumption of soy oil imports by China from Argentina may help bring down domestic prices in China, but this may further complicate the environment for the domestic soy crushing industry which is already reeling under the pressure of government price controls, record high soybean stocks and negative crushing margins.

Outlook:

Domestic edible oil price is likely to stay range bound and might see improvement in buying interest at lower price quotes which is likely to lend underlying support to the spot market prices going ahead.
