Domestic Fundamentals:

Soy oil price continue to trade mix in the spot market on another day. Weakness in CBOT Soy oil continues to affect the domestic sentiment. Weakness in crude oil price is likely to weigh on the oil market, going forward. Soy oil demand fails to catch up even at around 607 Rs. per 10 Kg (Indore). While there is no new development on the demand front, likely preference of CPO Imports over Soyoil will curb the availability of the same as well, while the lean season remains on, which is likely to cap the downside for the price. Groundnut oil price traded mix in the spot market. It drifted lower recently after hitting 1000 mark (Rs.10 Kg.) as export of groundnut got restricted due to operational reasons, while demand for the oil remained weak. Going forward, market sources in Rajkot suggest the exports have started once again that will again direct seed towards groundnut crushing and lift the oil price higher.

International Market Fundamentals:

Malaysian palm oil dropped to a seven-month low on Friday as expectations that a higher output cycle will lift stocks offset broad gains. Palm oil is on course for a drop of more than 8 percent in June, its worst monthly performance since February on sluggish commodity markets as well as high stocks outpacing export demand. Better export data is eyed next week to give some support but the impact may remain negligible. Stocks in Malaysia are likely to witness a rise of over 10% at the end of June as compared to a month earlier, owing to higher production and carryover stock.

Outlook:

Domestic edible oil price trend remain weakly skewed, catch up in demand is still eyed later this month and start of next month which is likely to render support to the prices at lower levels. Continuous improvements in Vegoil Import, is likely to remain one of the price controlling factor in the short term.
