Executive Summary:

- Onion Retail prices have increased relatively more as compared to wholesale prices during last week.
- Onion arrivals in Delhi markets have halved in last week due to shortage of railway wagons for transportation. Maharashtra traders were facing similar problems for other markets also. In Delhi, approx 50% of total arrivals are coming from Bhavnagar and Nasik. Rest is coming from nearby region of Haryana and Rajasthan.
- In Bhavnagar district of Gujarat, onion arrivals are comparatively improved from last week. During 1st week of February, total arrivals were around 39755 tons where as total arrivals during 24th Jan- 31st Jan was around 33117 tons. (Source: Agmarknet)
- In Nasik district (including all markets) of Maharashtra, total arrivals during 1st week of February were reported around 46441 tons while total arrivals during 24th- 31st Jan were around 47411 tons. Total arrivals during the same time last year were 58149 tons. This means arrivals have fallen as compared to previous week and at the same time last year. (Source: Agmarknet)
- According to trade sources, prices of onion in Katmandu has increased by Rs 15 compared to previous month and prices are hovering near Rs 45/kg. The reason for increase in prices is due to short supply and soaring prices in India as it is dependent on India.

The above table shows the wholesale and retail prices of onion in major cities of India. The relative increase in retail prices are more than wholesale prices. In some cities like Delhi, Mumbai and Patna, onion prices have decreased in wholesale mandi over previous week but it has increased in retail markets. This could be due to stable demand amid inadequate supply or retailers are taking benefit of fluctuating market and do not pass on the benefit of decrease in prices to end consumers.
