

Domestic Fundamentals:

- Steady to firm sentiments featured in various edible oils followed by short-term bullish international fundamentals.
- Palm, refined soy oil and mustard oil mostly witnessed firm tone. Refined sunflower oil remained steady.
- However, groundnut and refined cottonseed oil witnessed steady firm tone.
- However, the gains were restricted due to the feeble buying activity in the domestic cash markets in edible oils.
- Crude palm oil quoted higher on supportive international palm oil market and bullish price projections by top palm oil analyst. However higher unsold edible oil stocks limit upside.
- Groundnut oil quoted steady at Rajkot market due limited buying from repackers and wholesalers.
- Edible oil basket is expected to feature range bound to weak movement in the days ahead on sluggish domestic buying and higher oilseed arrivals. However, renewed demand could be witnessed at lower levels due to upcoming festivals in the last week March.

International Market Fundamentals:

- CBOT soyoil ended slightly higher despite fall in bean and meal.
- Malaysian palm oil futures could rise to 2,400-2,700 ringgit ($770 to $865) per tons by the end of May due to weaker production and falling trend in palm oil inventories. By the end of June 2013, Malaysian palm oil stocks will dip below 2 million tons and Indonesian stocks would below 4 million tons. However, after June prices will come under pressure as low palm oil production cycle ends –Dorab Mistry.
- According to the Chinese customs authorities, China's palm oil imports increased by 8.5% to 897,000 tons in the first two months of 2013 compared to the 826,000 tons imported in the same period last year. Chinese palm oil imports figures from major countries of origin (Values in tons and previous year figures in parenthesis): Indonesia 408,000 (364,000) and from Malaysia 479,000 (440,000).

Outlook: Edible oil prices are expected to feature range bound to weak movement in the near-term. However, renewed demand could be witnessed at lower levels.
