

Oil meal prices remained unchanged over lack of fundamentals.

- At the domestic front, the new crop contract was unable to breach the crucial resistance of 3410 and thus the good crop prospects have kept the overall market sentiments bearish.
- Weather is the market driving factor especially during the flowering and pod setting period.
- US bean is going to underpin by the weekly crop status report which is going to be released today. CME bean was trading high ahead of the mentioned release.
- Moving forward further development of weather premium is expected to happen in the coming trading session with forecast of continuous dry period.
