International Front

Soy oil prices are expected to be underpinned by rise in stocks of soy oil in US, good condition of soybean crop in Argentina, higher soybean crop in Brazil, weak demand of soybean from China may keep the prices in check. US-China trade talks are progressing and major breakthrough is expected and final rounds if talks are in progress. US President has said that it might take at least four weeks for trade talks to conclude. Both sides are expected to arrive at mutually agreed agreement. This has led to optimism in global markets and has supported global soybean complex prices.

US reported record stocks of soybean in the country as reported by USDA due to weak demand from China and record crop in 2018/19. This comes at a time when US farmers are expected to plant new soybean crop for 2019/20.

US is expected to plant lower area of soybean in 2019/20 due to record stocks of soybean in the country due to US-China trade dispute. However, due to recent rains and flooding in US Midwest there are chances of major shift of area from corn to soybean as corn cannot be grown in wetter areas.

Soy oil stocks rose in US in Feb as reported by NOPA despite fall in crush of soybean in Feb. Stocks of soy oil rises seasonally, but the rise was larger than trade estimates. However, stocks were still lower compared to corresponding period last year. Surging stocks of soy oil in US will underpin soy oil prices.

Soybean harvest in Brazil is progressing at much higher pace than expected. Harvest above compared to corresponding period last year and 5-year average. Yields reported is estimated to be higher than previous estimates. This has led various agencies including Brazil state agency CONAB to revise soybean crop higher from previous estimate. USDA revised soybean crop higher from Brazil by 0.5 MMT to 117 MMT in 2018/19.

Higher crop of soybean in Brazil will mean that global soybean supplies are surging much faster which will lead to additional bargaining tool for China in US-China trade settlement. China will look for higher purchase of soybean from Brazil leading to higher than expected soybean stock in US.

Soybean crop condition in Argentina has improved due to conducive weather in the country. Better weather led to improvement of yield and ultimately lead to higher soybean crop in the country. Harvest has started and is above last year and 5-year average. Weather is conducive for further progress of harvest. This has led to surge in global supplies. This has led to lower premium of Argentina soy oil over CBOT soy oil leading to lower FOB prices.

Bunious Aires Exchange has hiked soybean crop estimate of Argentina to 56 MMT from 53 MMT in its earlier estimate. USDA kept Argentina soybean crop estimate unchanged at 55 MMT in its April estimate.

China purchased 13 percent lower soybean in March y-o-y. March imports were 10 percent higher than Feb 2019. China brought soybean from US in March while Brazilian supplies increased during the month. Imports of soybean have been weak due to trade war between US and China.

Weak demand from China due to weak demand from feed sector due to lowering of protein feed quality, outbreak of swine flu, alternate source of protein and liquidation of soybean state reserves by China. However,

China must import more soybeans to control soy meal prices in the country, which is reeling due to outbreak of swine flu and negative crush margins.

USDA reduced 2018/19 China's soybean import estimate to 88 MMT from 90 MMT in 2018/19 in an effort by Beijing to move away from US soybean imports. Further cut in imports by China is expected in coming months.

China imported 88 MMT of soybean in 2018, according to CNGOIC, much lower than 95 MMT in 2017.

Soy oil end stocks in US in 2018/19 was cut by USDA on higher use of soy oil in biodiesel partially set off by higher production of soy oil. Further, soybean stocks of US was also revised lower by higher crush of soybean due to higher use. Strong soybean disappearance will support soybean complex prices.

Soybean exports from Argentina is expected to rise in 2019 to 13-14 MMT, especially to China on strong demand from the country. Argentina's crushers operate at 65 percent of capacity, which leads to higher disposable soybean.

Competitive oils like BMD palm oil and DALIAN RBD palmolein is expected to trade firm due to firm demand prospects, which will support soy oil prices.

Dollar Index is expected to fall on realignment of US FED towards future rise in interest rates in 2018-19 will support on soy oil prices in near term.

Global crude oil prices have is expected to rise due to OPEC cut in crude oil production. Resumption of US crude imports by China will support crude oil prices.

Preferential treatment given to Malaysia in terms of lower RBD palmolein imports will lead to higher imports of RBD palmolein and lower imports of CPO from Indonesia.

CPO import disparity decreased on fall in prices of CPO in international markets, which stands at Rs 2.5-3.0 per kg. Lower disparity in imports will increase import demand and will let prices fall.

Any decrease in disparity is likely to increase imports of CPO.

Import demand of RBD palmolein is expected to firm in oil year 2018-19 (Nov 2018-Oct 2019) due to reduction import duty on RBD palmolein, lower differential of RBD palmolein import duty over CPO.

Imports disparity of RBD palmolein has decreased due to fall in prices of palm products in international markets.

Stocks of RBD palmolein at Indian ports have increased due to higher imports and restocking at ports.

Demand of RBD palmolein was firm compared to CPO at high seas as premium of RBD palmolein over CPO was at Rs 71 (Rs 62) per 10 kg compared to last week.

Margins are higher in importing CPO and selling refined oil in domestic markets, than selling ready to use RBD palmolein in domestic markets.

Exports of palm oil have risen in first half of April from Malaysia due to firm demand from India and China. Imports from India rose due to fall in prices of palm oil in international markets and lower import duty on imports of RBD palmolein from Malaysia compared to other destination and positive refining margins.
